The Las Vegas valley's best Indian cuisine served in an elegant atmosphere.

This cousin of London's Origin India offers the best Indian cuisine in the Las Vegas valley, enhanced by the elegant décor featuring wood floors, black tables and candle-like lamps suspended from the high ceiling. The tomato soup flavored with coconut milk and cilantro is a savory beginning. We also like the potato patties stuffed with lentils and grilled in an iron skillet. We're partial to chicken tandoori, but also recommend the marinated fish of the day, possibly a lovely filet of sole, served with naan or paratha, a pancake-like bread. Lamb cooked with onion, yogurt and cashew sauce is also a winner. The extensive menu includes vegetarian and non-vegetarian tasting menus for two or more. Corn kernels cooked in pistachio-flavored milk ranks alongside Indian ice cream in mango, chocolate or pistachio flavors as the best dessert options. Harvey's Bristol Cream and St. Supery Moscato are fine accompaniments. Tabla Fridays---featuring appetizers, cocktails and live music with Indian percussionists---begin at 10 p.m., keeping the restaurant open until 2 a.m.
